

I do not want you to weaken Wisconsin's Do Not Call List. I have been on the list from its beginning, and am very happy with it. Before I was on the list, I was having to answer the phone calls of many telemarketers every night. I should also tell you that I am a marketing professional, so I am also affected by this list in a negative way in my professional life. It's not that difficult...you just use another medium to reach your target audience. I would much rather keep the Wisconsin Do Not Call List as is and not have the unwanted intrusions than have another marketing medium.
